

Not shown in pictures, but cellar has concrete around boiler area and then several inches of stone with plastic underneath throughout.

Earth area

Stone foundation wall; partially below grade in this area.

^ Original section of the house showing soil and stacked stone foundation and old log joists.

Log joists.

Higher wall – partian between old and new sections.

Earth partial wall.

^ Original section of the house showing typical other wall with more vertical structure and also showing old log joists.

Dirt floor with limited access to foundation.

^ Original section of the house showing additional low access areas under 1st floor and with newer joists.

Parged brick/stone walls; about 5' high.

Exist to outside. This area is almost all below grade.

Not shown in pictures, but cellar has concrete around boiler area and then several inches of stone with plastic underneath throughout.

^ "Newer" section – difficult to see, but shows the more structured foundation wall to the left and access stairs to right. Also shows HVAC and chimney foundation (has recessed wood cabinet).